There are a number of different child-safety devices that parents can purchase to ensure the safety of children in their home.

Parents should be sure to do their own consumer research to find the most effective safety devices:

- for their home's particular structure and layout;
- that are age-appropriate for their children;
- that are affordable; and
- that are compatible with their household's habits and lifestyle.

Feel free to ask me about these and other safety measures for your home.
