

Keeping the value in your home is more than just a pipe dream...

Our Certified Professional Inspectors® will protect your investment.

Buying a home?

The process can be stressful. A home inspection is supposed to give you peace of mind, but it often has the opposite effect. You will be asked to absorb a lot of information in a short amount of time.

The information typically includes a written report, a checklist, photos, environmental reports, and what the inspector himself says during the inspection. All this, combined with the seller's disclosure and what you notice yourself, can sometimes make the experience even more overwhelming.

What should you do?

Relax.

Much of your inspection will entail maintenance recommendations, standard life expectancies for various systems and components, and general information about the home's condition. These are all useful to know about.

Count on us.

Steve Inspector

InterNACHI-Certified
Professional Home Inspector®
(123) 456-7890
email@website.com