David learned early on he had a special gift. A gift he acquired adapting to the life of an “Army Brat.” Communication skills were a prerequisite to blend in with the many cultures and locations he experienced. He built on that foundation with a degree in Business from Arizona State University which he quickly put to use. While earning his degree, he worked full time for one of Arizona’s leading marketing firms – prospecting over 100,000 doors.

Knowing excitement and motivation are contagious, David went to work for the Nation’s #1 sales trainer, Tom Hopkins. It didn’t take long for him to become best in his field. David was Tom Hopkins #1 sales trainer in the nation for six consecutive years and has presented to over 5000 audiences nationwide.

David's dynamic personality, sales knowledge and skill development techniques have been credited for assisting in the success of companies world-wide, including Fortune 500s. His clientele include the following companies: Wells Fargo, American Express, Edward Jones, Coldwell Banker, Century 21, ReMax, Farmers Insurance, Pepsi, Bank of America, KB Homes, Del Webb, Hilton, Sheraton and more.

David practices what he preaches. He uses his skills in a fashion enabling him to help others improve their lives and careers. His entertaining and interactive speaking style have helped thousands put their greatest goals within reach. The proof is in the gratitude they’ve expressed by the plethora of letters he’s received.
