

REX Real Estate Announces Home Buyback Program

Brokerage guarantees home buyback after 30 days for whatever reason and after 90 days if an inspector missed something that should have been reported

WOODLAND HILLS, Calif., July 19, 2018 REX Real Estate, the digital alternative to the residential real estate agent, today announced two guarantees, a 30-day Home Buyback Guarantee and a 90-day Home Buyback Guarantee, bolstering the company's commitment to offering the best residential real estate services in the industry.

REX is a fully licensed brokerage and charges only a 2 percent total fee—in contrast to the industry's five to six percent fee—dramatically lowering the cost of home selling by leveraging big data, AI, and machine learning. The company aims to elevate the home buying experience for consumers with its Home Buyback Guarantee. If a REX home buyer isn't satisfied with their new home for any reason, the company will buy back the home at the full price within 30 days of closing, per a few terms and conditions designed to protect consumers and prevent abuse by real estate speculators.

“The home buyback program enables us to offer greater peace of mind to buyers,” said REX Co-Founder and CEO, Jack Ryan. “We are proud to offer this extra layer of protection, that we hope will exceed expectations on one of the biggest purchases consumers will ever make.”

REX has partnered with International Association of Certified Home Inspectors (InterNACHI®) on the additional 90-day home buyback guarantee which will be offered post-InterNACHI inspection if material defects are revealed to have been missed such as issues with the foundation or roof.

“InterNACHI is aligned with REX's commitment to enhance home buyer satisfaction,” said Nick Gromicko, founder of InterNACHI. “To date, we've proudly bought back 15 homes, and we look forward to helping ease the home purchase concerns of REX buyers.”
